Clifford Necessary And Mary Craft Win 17th Annual State Tournament

ARCHERS ASKED NOT TO NAIL PLATFORMS

With another hunting season approaching, it would seem that the article quoted below, which appeared in the Staunton News Leader last year just before hunting season, would still be in order. All bowhunters please take note and be governed accordingly:

"HARRISONBURG — With another bow and arrow hunting season approaching we wish to welcome hunters to the George Washington National Forest, stated A. H. (Andy) Anderson, forest supervisor.

"Bow hunting has gained in popularity each year. The lure of mild weather and beautiful fall colors is inducement enough to pick up a bow. Bow hunting calls for stalking and stealth and brings out the Indian in a man.

"Many bow hunters are also do-it-yourself carpenters. This has caused us some concern, continued Supervisor Anderson.

"Foresters are finding more and more tree platforms built by archery hunters as deer stands. These platforms consist of various types of lumber nailed to tree trunks and limbs. They vary in size, ranging from simple seats to more elaborate split-level types complete with steps or ladders.

"From the standpoint of game laws, they are not illegal, unless they are baited. From the Forest Service standpoint they are a nuisance and constitute damage to forest property due to nails being driven into tree trunks and limbs. Often branches are chopped or sawed off to improve visibility.

"The Forest Service will not permit structures and ladders to be nailed to trees. Where they are found on National Forest land they will be removed and destroyed.

"If a hunting platform is occupied the Forest Service will tell the hunter the structure is illegal and request its removal.

"It is not illegal for a hunter to climb a tree and hunt from a treetop. The Forest Service does not object to a seat or platform provided they are not nailed. Tying with ropes would be permissible. All structures must be removed after use.

"We are sure bow hunters will go along with these simple common sense rules so all can enjoy the natural beauty of our National Forests," said Supervisor Anderson."

Hunting Season Reminders

Open dates—October 15th through November 15th, both dates inclusive.

Open season on—Squirrel, deer of either sex, bear 75 lbs. and over.

Do not—have your bow strung while riding in a car, etc.

Do not—hunt while riding a fender, tailgate, etc.

Do not—leave a messy, unsightly campground when you break camp.

Do not—park your car in the best clearing (feeder) in the mountains while you go off to still-hunt.

Do not—miss that deer.

Do—keep your fellow-hunter in mind by practicing good sportsmanship.

Do—be sure of your target.

Do—carry the proper equipment, broadheads at least 7/8-inch in width and a bow capable of casting your hunting arrow at least 125 yards.

Do—have fun.

The headline for this article is a duplicate of the October, 1962 issue of FLIGHT with the exception that this covers the 17th annual State tournament rather than the 16th.

Clifford Necessary, men's instinctive champion, again set a new aggregate record by shooting a total for the three rounds of 1457. This is 3 points higher than his last year's score.

Women's instinctive champ, Mary Lee Craft, shot a 1222, which bettered her last year's score by 75 points.

Men's freestyle honors again went to Jack Cantwell. Jack shot a tremendous 1492 total. This is the first time that a free-style archer has beaten the instinctive champion in the State championship shoot but Jack bettered Clifford by 35 points. There were 38 men registered in the freestyle division this year, which was a substantial increase over last year. Should freestyle be broken down into classes, I believe they would show a big increase again next year.

Women's freestyle was won by Gertrude Lewis with a 951 total.

Men's hunter division honors went to Franklin J. McPeak, who shot a 1261 total. In the Women's hunter division, there was only one entry, Betty E. Kello. Betty shot an aggregate score of 954, which included a very respectable 408 for the animal round.

In our new Youth Division which, effective July 1, 1963, was broken down into classes in the same manner as the adult division, with the exception of hunter division (heavy tackle), Donald Perdue took first place in the instinctive division with an aggregate of 1138. Instinctive girls honors went to Jean Marie Wilkins with a total of 810 for the three rounds.

Freestyle boys was won by John Rust with a 981 total. There were no entries in the girls freestyle division.

Scores for the first, second and third place winners in each class are listed elsewhere in this issue.
