NFAA DIRECTORS DESK

By Bob Cissel

In the past, range inspections have become quite lacks. I beleive it is time to upgrade our range inspections and inspectors. I have found in the past that some ranges, for instance, have received the maximum bonus points for minimum facilities or no facilities at all. This is not an attempt to reduce any ranges star rating, but instead it is hoped that every club will receive the proper bonus points it deserves for the facilities it has worked so hard to provide. To illustrate, lets take the bonus points for parking. Now we know every club has parking, some have gravel parking areas, some park in open fields designated for parking and some park along state roads. It is not fair for all of the above to receive the same bonus points, but they do. The gravel parking should receive the maximum of 5 points, the parking along state roads should receive 1 point and designated field parking should receive 3 points. These would be guidelines laid down for each range inspector, he would of course have authority to raise or lower bonus points to give credit where credit is due.

Concerning our range inspectors, in the past we have had

The 4-H Way

From a recent article in the Winchester Evening Star. By Scott Patton Star Staff Writer.

FRONT ROYAL — The Mohawk, Cherokee, Shawnee and Blackfoot nations came to the Northern Virginia Regional 4-H Center the last week of July. They weren't there to sign a treaty or to attack the nearby U.S. Customs dog training center. The four Indian tribes were adopted names of groups of 4-H'ers camping at the center.

The 4-H Center is for the use of all the 4-H clubs in an 18-county area of Northern Virginia, but only three camping weeks will be held this summer.

While there is much Indian lore and tradition, there are more modern practical activities on which the week at camp is based. Woodworking - not whittling, mind you - nature hikes, outdoor cooking, archery, square dancing and even clowning are among the things that occupy the campers' time.

The classes are not taught by the counselors, but by professionals, who donate their time. Mr. and Mrs. Horace Schultz of Front Royal teach the archery class. Mrs. Schultz was the 1970 state woman's freestyle archery champion. Not a bad teacher for a ten year old to learn from.

E) All agenda items be mailed to the N.F.A.A. by registered receipts requested mail.

F) All contracts for hosting a major tournament for N.F.A.A. will be sent from N.F.A.A. to the host club at least 6 months in advance, that contract should be signed and returned to N.F.A.A. within 30 days of original postmark.

G) All target orders, score cards, awards, etc., will be determined by N.F.A.A. hdq. according to past shooting attendance and the number of ranges at that site to be utilized. Double posting of 20 & 35 cm faces, practice targets, and replacement targets must be taken into consideration in the planning.

Take the above agenda items back to your clubs and be prepared to instruct me how to vote by the Jan. VBA meeting. Remember nothing has been passed as of now. These are only the agenda items from the mid-Atlantics. I will not receive the other agenda items until November.

VBA MEETING HIGHLIGHTS

by Ann Boyd

At our last VBA meeting with only 15 clubs present. Hunting Vice Pres. Dave Proctor reported that the Game Commission meeting in April turned out in favor of VBA and Black powder hunters will not be allowed during Bow season. It was also pointed out that after July 1, 1981 no spotlighting will be allowed except on your own property or on landowners property with written permission.

Due to the ever increasing postal rates, future copies of VBA minutes will be mailed to club secretaries and VBA officers only. It is each club secretary's duty to read and discuss the minutes at club meetings.

There will be an up-dating of the VBA Constitution & By-laws Handbook at the August 2 O.G.F. meeting. Hopefully, within a short time issues will be published and available to the VBA membership.

Reaching The Truth Youngsters With: About Hunting

Are you ready for a shock?

The average School-age youngster thinks whitetail deer, elk, and antelope are in danger of extinction. Moreover, the average youngster thinks most-yes, most-American wildlife is in trouble.

These startling facts, turned up by recent studies for the National Shooting Sports Foundation, point up a disturbing lack of knowledge in American schools about wildlife. This lack of knowledge is a major factor in the growth of anti-hunting sentiment in many parts of the country.

"Youngsters simply aren't getting the truth about wildlife," says Bob Delfay, director of public relations for the National Shooting Sports Foundation. "They know very little about game management or the success we've had with it in the last 50 years."

"It stands to reason that large numbers of children are turning against hunting. They think hunters are killing the few deer and other animals left in the country."

To provide these youngsters with some facts for a change, the foundation has teamed with the International Association of Fish and Wildlife agencies to prepare a teaching package called "The Un-endangered Species."

The package, to be distributed free to schools, consists of an 18-minute filmstrip (or slide presentation), narration on a taped cassette, a teacher's guide, and a 48 page reference booklet. The audio-visual package explores the growth of wildlife management in America, and examines its role in rescuing numerous species of America's wildlife from the brink of extinction. It highlights the return to abundance of once-threatened species such as whitetail deer, Rocky Mountain elk, trumpeter swans, and wild turkeys—hence its name, "The Un-endangered Species."

"The package works," says Delfay. "We know it does because we presented the show to a test group of youngsters and then went back and measured the change in attitudes."

"Before we showed the filmstrip, 80 percent of the youngsters thought the whitetail was in danger of extinction, and an even higher percentage thought elk and antelope were in trouble. More than 60 percent opposed regulated hunting."

"Afterward, fewer than 5 percent thought any of the species in question were endangered. The number who supported regulated hunting more than doubled."

Experts outside the Shooting Sports Foundation agree that "Un-endangered Species" is a powerful tool. Shown the package, officials of the Mzuri Safari Foundation immediately anted up the funds to distribute 1,000 sets. Game Conservation International officials did likewise. The National Association of Sporting Goods Wholesalers paid for the distribution of 500.

"This is just the beginning," says Delfay. "We hope sportsmen will help us give away 10,000 sets and reach 10 million school children in the next five years."

Distribution of the sets works like this. Sportsmen and sportsmen's organizations buy the sets at cost from the National Shooting Sports Foundation and donate them to local schools. The cost is $4.75 for the filmstrip set and $14.95 for the slide presentation set. Please be sure to add $1.50 for postage and handling.

"This is a worthy and important program," says Clare Conley, editor of OUTDOOR LIFE. "It's so important that I'm going to report in the pages of OUTDOOR LIFE the names of all sportsmen or sportsmen's organizations that buy two or more of the sets. The Shooting Sports Foundation will send us the names to be recognized, and we'll print them as soon as possible."

State as well as local organizations should jump on the bandwagon, Conley says, urging that the show be aired at statewide conventions and other large gatherings.

"I think this is the kind of program that will catch on as soon as people learn how good the show is. I'm really for this program," Conley says. "It makes our future as hunters a lot brighter."

This new educational package attacks anti-hunting sentiment where it begins - in the schools. With your help we can reach 10 million youngsters in just five years.

anybody inspecting ranges with alot of people inspecting their own range, and I am as guilty as anybody else in that respect. I believe its time we updated and revised our our list of range inspectors. Therefore, I would appreciate it very much if each club would designate a person for range inspections, or any person who would like to help us out on range inspections in their area. Please forward to Bill Taylor or myself, their name, address and phone number. We will then compile a list of designated range inspectors for the state of Va. This list of inspectors along with guidelines for bonus points would be mailed to all inspectors, club secretaries and published in Flight. Then when it came time for your range to be inspected your secretary would have a list of guidelines for bonus points. It is hoped that in this way we would have a more fair and equal range inspection program throughout the state.

We have to begin somewhere. As of July 1, 1981 no inspector or club member will inspect there own range. If you have a problem with this contact Bill Taylor or Bob Cissel. All range inspection forms used will be the ones revised on or after Jan. 1978, these forms give proper credit for bonus points. All forms are to be filled out in triplicate and mailed to the Field Governor, Bill Taylor along with a check for $5.00 made payable to the N.F.A.A. Do not mail your forms to me, as Bill Taylor must receive them first, this has been a real problem in the past.

Princess Anne Bowmen

Greetings! Our Silver Quiver Annual Shoot was a big success, thanks to all our many fellow archers. 83 people shot a total of 142 rounds. Warwick took home the Participation Trophy. Trish and Mike Hug won the Husband and Wife Trophy. Door prizes went to Sheila Slaughter-arrows; Bruce Griffin-a bow sight; and Mark Paulsen-a Sport Shack tee shirt. Buddy Jones and Gary Eaton won the Horseshoe Contest.

Thirteen PAB members went to the Mid-Atlantics and 3 came home winners-Marlene Vanek, Charlie Brunnelson and Joe Kovachs. Congratulations to all of you.

Elections were held at our June meeting. Here is our Slate of Officers for the next year: President-Bill Reeves. Vice President-Charlie Brunnelson. Treasurer-Denny Fry. Corresponding Secretary-Nina Enders. Recording Secretary-Mary Fry. Range Captain-Benny Villorente. Keeper of the Constitution-Jan Holmes-Ray. Delegates Ellroy Russell and Janet Hughey.

We have revived an old challenge here at PAB .... Scalp hunting. To lift a scalp, you must challenge someone and then beat them in the club shoot. Handicaps are counted, so everyone has a chance. The person with the most scalps will be given a prize at our Christmas Party. Good hunting, everyone!

In September, PAB will be hosting the BROADHEAD JAM-BOREE-EAST, with our 3D animals. As usual, the life-like animals will be shot from the tree stands at unmarked distances. The running deer target will also be used. Broadheads are the order of the day, so come on down and limber up those hunting skills. Chiggers and mosquitoes have been special ordered to make this as realistic as possible.
