From The President

Merry Christmas And Thank God For 2002!

I don't know about the rest of you, but I will certainly be glad to look back on the year 2001. The year had many low spots, including September 11, which found me at my desk in the Pentagon. Of course, all the concern about further attacks, anthrax and the slumping economy hasn't picked up the spirits a lot either. Maybe what we should do as we head into the New Year is think only about the many blessings we have — family, health, job and good friends. I think my first resolution for 2002 will be to put 2001 as far behind me as possible, and my second resolution will be to spend more time with my family (especially my grandchildren) and friends.

I do hope you have all found time to enjoy the hunting season and that it has been successful for you. I have been blessed with a freezer full of venison this year, but was not fortunate enough to harvest anything to hang on the wall. I know that some of you have taken some really nice animals and I hope you will enter them into our annual "Big Buck Contest" and share them with us at the VBA Banquet on March 16.

I've heard that several clubs have started their indoor leagues and are seeing pretty good turnouts. I hope this means we will see an increased number of shooters at our State Indoor in a couple of months. You can't enjoy the benefits of an organization if you don't participate. Besides, shooting through the winter keeps those skills sharp for that spring bear hunt.

Hopefully, we'll see most of you at the coming year at the VBA Banquet and a shoot. In the meantime, I hope that each of you have a truly blessed Holiday Season and a Happy, Healthy, Prosperous New Year. ↗

—Bob Seltzer

IN THE KITCHEN WITH WINNIE & WALLY

Greene County (Mississippi) Style Venison Roast

- 1 quart cider vinegar
- 1 quart water
- 1 Tbsp. red pepper
- 1 Tbsp. black pepper
- 1 Tbsp. salt
- 3 cloves garlic, chopped
- 3 bay leaves
- 1 tsp. cloves
- 1 tsp. allspice

- 1 tsp. mustard seed
- 1 tsp. thyme
- 1 venison fore or hindquarter roast
- 1/2 lb. salt pork, cut into strips
- 1 medium onion, cut in strips
- 12 strips celery
- 1/2 cup sour cream
- 1/2 cup currant jelly
- 1 Tbsp. brandy

Make marinade by mixing vinegar, water and spices. Place venison roast in a large glass bowl and completely cover with marinade. Refrigerate for 12 to 24 hours; turn three of four times. With a long, thin knife punch 10 to 20 holes deep into the roast. Insert the salt pork strips, onion strips and celery strips. Insert a meat thermometer into the thickest part of the roast. Preheat oven to 325 degrees. Baste frequently with the remaining marinade and meat drippings. Roast is done when thermometer registers 145 degrees. Remove roast. Skim fat from pan juices and add sour cream, currant jelly, and brandy. Mix well and warm. Slice roast and spoon gravy over the roast slices. Serves six to eight.
